Case IH wins large-scale multi-machine order from Ukrainian ag business

Buyer is one of Ukraine's largest fertilizer companies / Fleet deal includes multiple Steiger AFS Connect tractors, Nutri-Tiller fertilizer applicators and Ecolo-Tiger primary tillage combinations / Agreement with long-term Case IH customer valued at approximately US$11m

One of the largest fertilizer companies in Ukraine is continuing to place its trust in Case IH as the core supplier of key farm equipment to its business, with a machine order totalling US$11m that comprises multiple units of the latest Steiger AFS Connect tractors, plus Ecolo-Tiger disk/tine combination cultivators and Nutri-Tiller strip-tillage applicators.

UkrAgro NPK, part of OSTCHEM Group, supplies and applies fertilizers, seeds and crop protection products. The company is currently developing new branches focused on the activities of transport and application of liquid ammonia for farms of all sizes across the country. The new deal, which continues a long-term relationship with Case IH as its preferred machinery partner, includes 30 Case IH Steiger 500 AFS Connect tractors, featuring the latest wireless data transfer capabilities, Multicontroller armrest controls and many other cab upgrades to boost machine efficiency and operator comfort.

Also included in the agreement are 30 Case IH Nutri-Tiller 955 applicators, allowing liquid fertilizer to be applied in cultivated bands without disturbing the alternate soil strips. For situations where greater primary tillage, soil cultivation and residue management are required, the deal is completed by three Case IH Ecolo-Tiger 875 disk/tine cultivators.

"With the latest developments in the Case IH product line, such as the Steiger AFS Connect tractors, plus well-proven equipment such as the Nutri-Tiller applicators and Ecolo-Tiger disk/tine cultivators, we were happy to continue our long-term relationship with Case IH as our key machinery supplier and place an order of this size," says Vladimir Dovbnia, general manager of UkrAgro NPK.

Ukraine is well-known for its large agricultural businesses and the size of its land bank, points out Yuri Yegorov, Case IH business director for Ukraine.

"With our range of farm equipment, particularly high-horsepower tractors, sprayers and other equipment, Case IH has the ideal product offering to support such companies. This is, however, the
